

Minoo Newsletter

For Communities

Vol. 1 • Issue 1 • 2026-06-01

Serving the communities of the North Shore, Robinson Huron Treaty territory

I created this newsletter to bring you local news, upcoming events, teachings, language, humour, and puzzles every month. I hope you enjoy it.

KEEPER'S NOTE

Aanii! My name is Russell Jones. I am a software developer from Sagamok Anishnawbek and I build technology for Indigenous communities. For a long time I've wanted to put those skills to work closer to home. This is one answer.

I built this newsletter with Minoo Live, a community platform I created for Anishinaabe communities. Minoo Live is not owned by a corporation in California or Toronto. It was built here, by one of us, and it stays here. The data belongs to the communities it serves.

Think about what happens when we rely on platforms we do not control. In 2023, Meta blocked news from Facebook and Instagram across Canada.

That same summer, wildfires tore through the north and forced remote Indigenous communities to evacuate. Emergency updates, evacuation notices, and shelter information that our people share through Facebook groups were blocked along with everything else.

Your photos, your event pages, your community group. All of it sits on a server in California where someone else decides the rules. They can change those rules any time they want. They already do.

Our people should control our own technology the same way we control our own land, our own water, and our own stories. Minoo Live keeps community data in community hands. What appears online arrives in your hands in print.

This first issue is a beginning. It will grow with your ideas and your words. If you have a teaching to pass along or a joke that makes you laugh every time, send it our way. Contact information is on the back page.

Miigwech for picking this up.

Russell Jones

Sagamok Anishnawbek

IN THIS ISSUE

Biindigen — come inside.

NEWS

Treaty Chiefs say no to herbicide spraying

4

CALENDAR

June events in Sagamok and across the North Shore

6

TEACHINGS

Niibin: the time of growing

7

LANGUAGE

A word to carry: Niibin

8

OUR TERRITORY

The twenty-one First Nations of Robinson Huron

9

PUZZLES & HUMOUR

Word search, jokes, horoscopes

10

ELDER SPOTLIGHT

Grace Manitowabi on Minigoziwin

13

READER MAIL

What we hope you send for Issue 2

15

“

I built this newsletter because I wanted Anishinaabe news to arrive at the kitchen table, not the algorithm.

— Russell, p. 2

IN THE NEXT ISSUE

- The powwow trail in full swing
- Manoomin teachings
- Riddle of the Month winner

Send stories, events, and photos to hello@minoo.live.

COMMUNITY NEWS

| What is happening around the community this month.

TREATY RIGHTS

Treaty Chiefs Say No to Herbicide Spraying

April 8, 2026

Leaders of the 21 Robinson Huron Treaty First Nations issued a public notice: forestry companies do not have consent to conduct aerial or ground-based herbicide spraying in treaty territory. Interfor confirmed it will not spray in 2026, but chiefs want a permanent moratorium on glyphosate. The herbicide kills sage, sweetgrass, and cedar. Hunters have reported moose with signs of cancer in sprayed areas.

Source: Turtle Island News, Anishinabek News

NEWS BRIEFS

More from around our communities.

Over 1,000 Gather for Anishinaabemowin

March 26–28, 2026

The annual Anishinaabemowin Teg gathering brought more than 1,000 people together in London, Ontario from March 26 to 28. The conference focused on helping youth learn the language through workshops, speakers, and community activities. Anishinaabemowin is spoken by less than one per cent of our population. Gatherings like this are how we change that.

Source: Anishinaabemowin Teg

22 First Nations Taking Over Child Welfare

April 2026

Twenty-two Anishinabek First Nations have chosen to enact the Anishinabek Nation Child Well-Being Law. The law shifts child welfare from a protection model to a prevention model. Communities will design services based on their own laws, traditions, and priorities. The goal is to keep children with their families and in their communities. After decades of outside agencies making decisions about our kids, First Nations are taking that responsibility back.

Source: Anishinabek News, Manitoulin Expositor

Sagamok Councillor Shares Teachings at Zhiibaahaasing

March 23, 2026

Sagamok Anishnawbek Councillor Leroy Bennett joined Nokomis Martina Osawamick for the Zhiibaahaasing Cultural Speaker Series on March 23. The session, "Stages of Life and Ceremonies," was held at the Zhiibaahaasing Complex in Wiikwemkoong Unceded Territory. These teachings connect the stages of life to ceremony and remind us that every age carries its own responsibilities.

Source: Anishinabek News

EVENTS CALENDAR

What is happening in Sagamok and across the North Shore in June.

Spring OVC Spay, Neuter and Wellness Clinic

When: June 5 – 10, starting 8:00 AM

Where: Sagamok

The Ontario Veterinary College returns for a week of spay, neuter, and wellness appointments. On-reserve members eligible. Book through the band office.

Mothers' Grief Program

When: Saturday, June 6, 11:00 AM

Where: Sagamok

A circle for mothers carrying grief. Open to community members.

Sagamok YWHO Youth Advisory Committee

When: Wednesday, June 10, 4:00 PM

Where: Multi-Educational Centre Meeting Room

Help shape Sagamok's Youth Wellness Hub. Open to youth who want a voice in the work.

Community ID and Support Services Clinic

When: Friday, June 12, 10:00 AM

Where: Sagamok

Help with identification, status cards, and connected support services.

CFAU 1st Annual Charity Golf Tournament

When: Friday, June 19, 9:00 AM – 4:00 PM

Where: Stone Ridge Golf Course, Elliot Lake

Four-person scramble, amateurs only. $600 per team, first 30 paid teams guaranteed a spot. Includes golf cart, dinner, and gift bag. Elimination draw and hole-in-one prizes. Register at sagamokanishnawbek.com/cfau-golf-tournament.

National Indigenous Peoples Day

When: Sunday, June 21

Watch for community announcements.

JUNE 2026

MO	TU	WE	TH	FR	SA	SU
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
8	9	10	11	12	13	14
15	16	17	18	19	20	21
22	23	24	25	26	27	28
29	30

EVERY WEEK IN SAGAMOK

Waawaasnoode Adult Learning Centre, Monday to Friday, 9:00 AM

Hapkido Karate, ages 6+, Mondays, 6:00 PM

Young Warriors Drum Group, ages 12–24, Tuesdays, 6:00 PM

Youth Gym Nights, Tuesdays and Thursdays, 6:00 PM

Family Playgroup, alternating Wednesdays, 12:00 PM

Youth Basketball, ages 12–24, Saturdays, 6:00 PM

TEACHINGS

Seasonal knowledge passed down through generations.

Niibin: The Time of Growing

Summer is known as Niibin in Anishinaabemowin. The earth is full and giving back what was promised in spring. The lakes warm, the berries ripen, the medicines stand tall, and the trail eases under foot.

Our ancestors did not need a printed calendar to know Niibin had arrived. When the wild strawberries showed red along the road, when the thunders rolled and rolled again, when the bay quieted under a long evening light, the season had turned. These teachings still tell time better than any page.

Miinike: The Berry Harvest

One of the first gifts of Niibin is ode'imín, the heart berry. Strawberries come first. We honour them as the first berry of the year, and the teaching that comes with them is about family and forgiveness.

Picking is the easy part. Carrying a basket back to the people who could not go out, that is the work. Blueberries follow soon after, then raspberries, then thimbleberries. Each one comes when it is ready.

Summer Medicines

As Niibin opens, the strong medicines stand where they have always stood. Wiingashk (sweetgrass), giizhik (cedar), and asema (tobacco) are gathered with care, with offering, and only what is needed.

Know a summer medicine teaching? Share it with us. This section grows with your voices.

LANGUAGE CORNER

A word to carry with you this month.

Niibin

Niibin — NEE-bin

Summer

"Niibin bi-dgoshin." – Summer is arriving.

Anishinaabemowin Corner

Try using one this week with your family or at the next community gathering. We want to include more Anishinaabemowin in every issue. If you are a speaker or language learner and would like to contribute words, phrases, or short lessons, this is your page. We especially welcome contributions from our Elders who carry the language.

Miinike

MEE-nih-keh

To pick berries

Ode'imin

OH-deh-min

Strawberry (heart berry)

Aandeg

AHN-deg

Crow

Gimiwan

gih-MIH-wun

It is raining

OUR TERRITORY

The twenty-one First Nations of the Robinson Huron Treaty, 1850.

“We are the people of the North Shore. Here is where we belong.”

The Robinson Huron Treaty of 1850 is the agreement between our ancestors and the Crown that shapes the North Shore of Lake Huron to this day. Twenty-one First Nations are signatories. These are our relatives — the communities whose names we carry with us.

Aamjiwnaang — at the spawning stream

Atikameksheng Anishnawbek — people of the whitefish
(formerly Whitefish Lake)

Batchewana — current that turns back on itself

Beausoleil
(Christian Island, Georgian Bay)

Dokis
(on the French River)

Garden River — Ketegaunseebee — garden river

Henvey Inlet

Magnetawan — swiftly flowing river

Mississauga — river with many mouths

Nipissing — at the little water

Ojibways of Pic River — Biigtigong Nishnaabeg

Pic Mobert

(north of Lake Superior)

Sagamok Anishnawbek — where the rivers join

Serpent River — Genaabaajing — winding river

Sheguiandah
(Manitoulin Island)

Sheshegwaning — place of the rattle
(Manitoulin Island)

Thessalon

Wahnapiatae — shaped like a molar tooth

Wikwemikong — bay of the beaver
(unceded — Manitoulin Island)

Whitefish River
(Birch Island)

Zhiibaahaasing — place where the wind blows through
(Manitoulin Island)

When you read a name on this page, you are reading a piece of the land itself. Every one of these communities is family to us.

JOKES & HUMOUR

A little laughter is good medicine.

Rez Humour

Why did the moose cross Highway 17?
To prove to the partridge it could be done.

My kookum said the secret to a long life is bannock every day.

The doctor said it's vegetables.

I'm going with kookum.

Elder at the community meeting: "Back in my day we didn't have Wi-Fi. We had to walk to our cousin's house to find out what was for supper."

How do you know spring has arrived on the rez?

The mudroom actually has mud in it.

My cousin said the Band Office finally got back to him.

I asked what they said.

He said, "They told me to come back Tuesday."

I said, "Which Tuesday?"

He said, "Exactly."

Got a Good One?

Send us your best jokes, funny stories, or rez humour for next month's issue. Keep it clean. Kookum is reading this. Contact details are on the back page.

PUZZLES

Something to work on with your morning tea.

Word Search: Niibin Words

Find the hidden words in the grid. Words can go across, down, or diagonally.

N	I	I	B	I	N	K	T	B
G	O	D	E	I	M	I	N	P
I	M	S	H	K	I	K	I	T
M	T	A	A	N	D	E	G	K
I	W	I	I	G	W	A	A	S
W	P	M	I	G	I	Z	I	T
A	S	O	N	G	B	I	R	D
N	K	B	P	T	M	A	K	I
T	M	Z	B	P	N	K	T	M

NIIBIN (Summer)

MSHKIKI (Medicine)

MIGIZI (Eagle)

GIMIWAN (Rain)

AANDEG (Crow)

SONGBIRD

ODE'IMIN (Strawberry)

WIIGWAAS (Birch)

AKI (Earth)

RIDDLE OF THE MONTH

I have no mouth, but I carry the community's voice.
I have no feet, but I walk from house to house.
I come back every moon with something new to say,
and I am only worth what the people put in me.

What am I?

Answer in next month's issue. Send your guess to the address on the back page — first correct reply gets a mention.

WORD SCRAMBLE

Unscramble these Anishinaabemowin words:

1. GIIMAA (hint: a leader)
2. NIIBNA (hint: summer)
3. MKAUDE (hint: black)

(Answers in next month's issue!)

CLAN HOROSCOPES

Seasonal guidance drawn from the clans. Take what speaks to you.

MAKWA: BEAR CLAN

Bear is out of the den now and on the move. So are you. This month someone close is going to need your steady presence more than your advice. Sit with them. The medicine you carry is not in what you say.

MIGIZI: EAGLE CLAN

Eagle sees the whole valley from one pine. Pull back and look at the full picture before you answer that message you have been turning over. A decision is coming that is bigger than it looks. Trust the long view.

MA'IINGAN: WOLF CLAN

The pack is calling. There is someone you have not spoken to since before freeze-up, and you both know who. Make the first move. Wolves do not wait for the trail to be perfect — they walk it together and the trail becomes clear.

WAABIZHESHI: MARTEN CLAN

Marten is quick, curious, and finishes what it starts. That project you put down in January is ready for the next step, and you already know what the next step is. Stop researching. Begin.

AJIJAAK: CRANE CLAN

Crane speaks for the people, which means Crane also has to listen first. Your words carry weight this month, especially in a hard conversation. Choose them the way you would choose kindling — small, dry, and enough to start a fire that warms the room.

GIIGOONH: FISH CLAN

The fish are running and so is your mind. You have been thinking too much. Get outside, put your feet on the ground, and let the water carry some of that weight. The answer you are looking for shows up when you stop looking so hard.

BINESHIINH: BIRD CLAN

The songbirds have come back singing something slightly different this year. So will you. If there is a creative thing you set aside — a drum, a beading project, a story you never finished writing — this is the month it comes back up. Do not be precious about it. Start rough.

ELDER SPOTLIGHT

Honouring the people who carry our community forward.

Grace Manitowabi, Sagamok Anishnawbek

Grace Manitowabi: Keeper of the Land

If you have been to a community gathering in Sagamok in the last few years, you have probably heard Grace Manitowabi's voice before you heard anyone else's. She is usually the one asked to open with prayer, and she is usually the one who — gently, without raising her voice — reminds the room why we are there.

Grace is a Traditional Ecological Knowledge Elder. That phrase sounds bigger than it needs to. What it means, in her hands, is that she knows the plants by their right names, she knows which ones are medicine and which ones are food and which ones to leave alone, and she knows what time of year to pay attention. She did not learn that from a book. She learned it from her grandmothers, and from the bush, and from years of sitting quietly enough that the land could tell her something.

Readers of page 4 will already know that the Robinson Huron Treaty Chiefs have been pushing back against aerial herbicide spraying across our treaty lands. Grace has been one of the steady voices in that work for a long time — not on a podium, but on the phone, at the kitchen table, and beside the highway, organizing a billboard campaign so that every driver passing through treaty territory would see the message: stop spraying our medicines. When hunters came home and said they were seeing things in the moose they had never seen before, Grace made sure that was not dismissed as a story.

Ask people in Sagamok about her and they do not usually lead with any of that. They lead with how she treats the young ones who come to her with questions. They lead with her laugh, which arrives a half-second before you expect it. They lead with the fact that when the new Anishinabek Police Services detachment opened here in 2023, it was Grace who offered the opening prayer — and everyone in the room understood why.

Her teachings are not only about the land. She speaks often about Minigoziwin, our inherent sovereignty, and about the idea that our communities should be the ones making decisions about our children, our medicines, and our future.

“She does not say it like a political position. She says it like a fact she already knew when she was small.”

We are grateful for Elders like Grace who do not wait for permission to protect what matters, and who carry themselves so that the rest of us can see what it looks like to stand for something without making noise about it.

Miigwech, Grace.

Know an Elder who should be featured in a future issue? Write to us through Minoo Live or by email. We will reach out with care, and we only publish with the Elder's permission.

READER MAIL & NEXT ISSUE

| What we are hoping you send us for Issue 2.

This is a first issue. That means everything in these pages is an opening — an invitation for you to send us what you have. Here is what we are asking for in Issue 2.

The Riddle of the Month. Send your guess to the address on the back page. The first correct reply gets a mention in the next issue.

Berry picking memories. A story, a name, a photograph, a recipe. Whatever you have. We will carry it in the way it was given.

Elder Spotlight nominations. Know an Elder whose story should be told? Tell us who and why. We reach out with care, and we only publish with their permission.

Summer medicine teachings. If you carry knowledge about the plants that stand tall through Niibin and you are willing to share what can be shared, this is your page.

Jokes and rez humour. Clean enough for kookum to read. Original or passed down, doesn't matter.

Anishinaabemowin contributions. Words, phrases, short lessons, pronunciation recordings — anything a learner could use.

Coming in Issue 2: The Wiikwemkoong Traditional Pow Wow preview, an expanded Language Corner, answers to this month's riddle and scramble, and the first reader-submitted berry memory.

Miigwech for reading. See you at the mailbox.

Manoomin season, back-to-school stories, and what we carry home from the powwow trail.

Send us your photos, stories, and events by July 15.

ABOUT THIS NEWSLETTER

About This Newsletter

This newsletter is generated by Minoo Live, a community platform built by Anishinaabe people for Indigenous communities. Content is produced and curated at minoo.live. Community members submit events, stories, and language contributions through the platform. Minoo Live assembles each issue, renders it as a print-ready PDF, and sends it to the printer.

Everything you read in this newsletter started as community data, entered by community members, stored on community infrastructure. No corporate middleman. No data leaving the territory.

This newsletter is free.

Contribute

Submit content: minoo.live

Email: russell@web.net

Events, teachings, language, jokes, Elder Spotlight nominations:

Submit through Minoo Live or email. We publish what the community sends us.

Minoo Newsletter

Vol. 1, Issue 1 · Niibin 2026

Miigwech for reading. See you next month.

Editor & Keeper Russell Jones, Sagamok Anishnawbek

Published 2026-06-01

Issue Vol. 1 · No. 1

Contact hello@minoo.live · minoo.live

CANADA POST
PUBLICATIONS MAIL
AGREEMENT NO.
[PENDING]

Return
undeliverable to:
Minoo Live
[Street address]
Sagamok, ON
[P.C.]

WITH THANKS TO

Waaseyaa

Waaseyaa

OIATC

OIATC

Minoo

For Communities · minoo.live